

BOISDALE PRIVATE EVENTS

Meet, Party & Entertain at Boisdale

Boisdale, the brainchild of Ranald Macdonald first sprang to life in November 1988 as a bijou bar and restaurant in London's fashionable Belgravia. Over the years it has grown in size and reputation to become the embassy of Highland hospitality south of the border.

Boisdale was named after a remote port in the Outer Hebrides, which for centuries was the home of the Macdonalds of Clanranald, an ancient and noble Scottish clan, of which Ranald's father is The Captain – the clan chief.

Boisdale of Belgravia and Boisdale of Bishopsgate

There are two London establishments open to the general public – Boisdale of Belgravia and Boisdale of Bishopsgate – with a variety of bars, restaurants and dining rooms which feature live jazz every evening. Boisdale is also home to The Boisdale Jazz & Cigar Club which offers a wide range of events and benefits to its ever-growing coterie of members.

The Lamb at Hindon

In 2004 Boisdale acquired The Lamb at Hindon, a 17th century coaching inn, steeped in history and resting in the rolling hills of Wiltshire. The Lamb has 14 bedrooms, a restaurant, bar and meeting rooms and is open all year round.
