MUSIC AT BOISDALE

You Can't Do That, Boisdale Records: The Boisdale Blue Rhythm Band's third album is a celebration of tobacco, mainly in the form of cigarettes but there's one song about the pleasures of the pipe (The Blue Room) and another mentions cigars (The Man From The South). The CD is bookended by two new songs specially written for us. The opener, with lyrics by playwright Alan Plater and music by BBC jazz musician of the year Alan Barnes is a witty commentary on life after July 1 - it's called I'm Going Outside And I May Be Some Time. The sombre closer The Last Smoker is penned by the great lyricist Fran Landesman with music by Boisdale Blue Rhythm Band pianist Simon Wallace. Also, alongside the house band we have contributions from Ray Gelato's Giants and the fabulous Shoo Shoo Baby sing "Cigarette and a Silhouette" www.shooshoobaby.co.uk.

YOU CAN'T DO THAT!

Taicuba Live at Boisdale 2001, Boisdale Records: Taicuba founded in 1947 are one of Cuba's greatest bands of all time. Regulars at the Buena Vista Social Club Taicuba have performed for the likes of Noel Coward, Errol Flynn, Ernest Hemingway, Ava Gardner, Jack Nicholson and at separate times Presidents Batista, Kennedy and Castro. This is an absurdly charming album for lovers of traditional Cuban "Buena Vista" style music
